

The Heinrich-Böll-Stiftung cordially invites you to a discussion on the current Palestinian-Israeli Negotiations about a framework agreement. The Böll Debates are a loose series of discussions on current political, social, and environmental affairs which aim to bring together Palestinian and international representatives from civil society, government, and other sectors.

Topic	The Kerry Framework – (Any)where to go from here?
Guests	Speaker: Dr. Mohammad Shtayyeh Commentators: Diana Buttu, Political Analyst Shawan Jabarin, Director Al-Haq Moderated by Dr. René Wildangel
Date	6 March 2014	Time 12 p.m.
Location	Heinrich Böll Foundation's Office in Ramallah (near Friends Boys School, 5 th floor, Conference Room)

The current American administration restarted Israeli-Palestinian negotiations in July 2013. Since then Secretary of State John Kerry has traveled to the region on multiple occasions. Shortly, he is expected to present a “framework agreement” which will outline some basic principles for further negotiations.

So far, few details about the negotiations and the actual framework have come to light. We want to discuss with Dr. Shtayyeh, one of the key persons involved, the prospects for the negotiation process, the framework document, and/or a final status agreement.

After a short welcome by Dr. René Wildangel, director of hbs Ramallah, Dr. Mohammad Shtayyeh is going to give a briefing about the current situation in the peace talks and the Palestinian position. Diana Buttu and Shawan Jabarin will comment on the remarks, followed by Q&A and discussion.

The event will be conducted in English. Light lunch provided.
