

PUBLIC EVENT as part of the 2nd International Conference

Current Populism in Europe: Impact on the Political Landscape

23 May 2016, 16:00 – 19:30

Goethe-Institut Tschechien

Masarykovo nábř. 32, Prague 1

The conference takes place under the auspices of H.M. Tomáš Zima, the Rector of Charles University in Prague and H.E. Arndt Freiherr Freytag von Loringhoven, the Ambassador of the Federal Republic of Germany to the Czech Republic

Photo: Dr Case, Paste-up, Berlin

Programme

16:00 – 16:15 Opening of the Public Part of the Conference

Berthold Franke (Director, Goethe-Institut Tschechien)

H.M. Tomáš Zima (Rector, Charles University)

H.E. Arndt Freiherr Freytag von Loringhoven (Ambassador of the Federal Republic of Germany to the Czech Republic)

16:15 – 17:00 Keynote Paper

Michael Freeden (University of Oxford)

Populism and ideology: A problematic pairing revisited

17:00 – 17:15 Coffee Break

17:15 – 17:45 Introductory Paper for the Evening Discussion

Heinz Bude (University of Kassel)

17:45 – 19:30 EVENING DISCUSSION: Impacts of Populism on Political Systems

Chair: Eva van de Rakt (Heinrich-Böll-Stiftung Prague)

András Bozóki (Central European University, Budapest)

Heinz Bude (University of Kassel)

Petr Drulák (Political Secretary, Czech Ministry of Foreign Affairs)

Darina Malová (Comenius University, Bratislava)

19:30 Refreshment

Working languages: English and Czech
Simultaneous interpretation will be provided.

More information about the conference on populism.fsv.cuni.cz

Contact person: Martin Mejstřík, mejstrik.m@fsv.cuni.cz

With the support of the Europe for Citizens programme of the European Union

Co-funded by the Europe for Citizens Programme of the European Union

